

As I get older I realize that sometimes in my misguided youth I would take my mom for granted. My mom took me in as a kitten prior to Hurricane Katrina, tolerated me catting around at night, eating too much cat nip, and just being the rebellious tom cat that I was. Did she stop loving me, give up on me? Never!!! My mom is always there for me! After a recent health scare, instead of waiting she rushed me to my new friends at The Cat Practice. My health issues are behind me now. Even though I prefer chilling on the sofa nowadays, I have time to reflect about how much my mom has and always will love me.

Happy Mother's Day Mom!!!
