

4.5.19

This week we're talking Ultrasound
So won't you lend an ear
This machine uses sound waves
To make kitty problems clear

We use it when we need to look
Where X-rays just can't go:
Inside the organ where we'll see
What's causing so much woe

From abdominal diseases
To enlarged swollen lymph nodes
The ultrasound can see it all
And help us diagnose

And best of all if we see something
That might be a threat
Ultrasound helps us take a sample
To collect and test

So now you know why Ultrasound
Can help us quickly treat
For diagnosis and for tests
Doc says it can't be beat!

Howdy folks! This is Raptor reporting from 1809 Magazine with another awesome Tech Month info post! The Ultrasound is an awesome machine that uses sound to show us inside internal organs like the stomach, liver, pancreas, bladder, intestines and more! This helps us to diagnose and treat internal problems quickly, and even helps us to collect samples of abnormalities so we can run tests and find out what's going on. It's such a useful tool for Doc and his team and we're so glad he can use it to keep kitties healthy!

Over and out,

Raptor